How to Register on Wiley Online Library

1. Click on the down arrow to the right of Log In / Register on the homepage.
2. Click on the Register link at the bottom of the box that appears.

Login Information

3. On the registration page enter your e-mail address—which will become your user name—and choose a password.

Personal Profile

4. Enter your first and last names, country and area of interest.

* This information is never shared with any third party.
Promotional Information

5. Click the relevant check-boxes if you would like to receive promotional information by e-mail or by regular mail.

6. Enter your mailing address if you have selected to receive promotional material by regular mail.

7. Check details, view Terms and Conditions and check the box, then click on Submit registration.

Once submitted you will receive an email asking you to validate your registration.

As a registered Wiley Online Library user you can save articles, chapters, publications and searches; set up email alerts for content, citations and saved searches; and purchase individual articles, chapters or subscriptions.
How to sign up for email table of contents alerts

By signing up to receive email table of contents alerts for the journal you will be alerted each time a new issue goes online, enabling you to read new research as soon as it is published.

Follow these simple steps to register for email of table of contents alerts:

1. Login to your Wiley Online Library account (or register to create an account if you don’t yet have one).
2. Visit The Journal of Clinical Hypertension homepage
3. Click on ‘Get New Content Alerts’ from the ‘Journal Tools’ menu on the upper left-hand side of the screen

You will now receive email table of contents alerts for The Journal of Clinical Hypertension. You can manage your email alerts and edit your personal and login details in the My Profile area [top right of the screen] by clicking on Alert Manager.